

Mission Beach Film Festival

What the World Could Be

The Mission Beach Film Festival presents a diverse program of films and sidebar programs that places a focus on what our world could be if we change our expectations and what the world could be if we don't. Our program will encourage consideration of alternative, more sustainable solutions and perspectives on how we live, how we play, how we do business and how we function as a community.

The Mission Beach Film Festival 2010 will present a film program launched with a Gala Opening night and will be further enriched by a speaker series, filmmaking and sustainable living workshops, children's program, growers market and shall build on the success of the people's choice stills exhibition and short film competition.

The film program will feature inspiring, entertaining and provocative films that will shine a light on how we live with the natural world and how the natural world responds to the people who live in it.

Full details of the Festival, together with application information for the Stills Photography and Short Film Competitions, are available on the website;
